

Page Download Feature Manual

Riki - CSC 440 - Team Husk - Max Moeller

Overview

This feature allows for Riki pages to be downloaded by a user in a variety of different formats. This is useful for a variety of reasons, including but not limited to:

- Offline browsing of Riki pages
- Archival of Riki pages
- Printable formats
- Appending Riki pages to papers as sources
- Conversion of Riki pages to a more machine-readable format (for text to speech, for example)

Implementation

This feature adds a "Download" link to the "Actions" toolbar, which is visible on every page. Upon selecting the download button, the user is taken to the download page for that article. There, the user is presented with buttons allowing them to download the page in a variety of formats, along with file size information. The files are updated and stored every time a page is created or edited, so they are ready to download before requested.

Guide

1. Navigate to a Riki page of your choice.

Hello

Hello is a common greeting.

- A greeting (salutation) said when meeting someone or acknowledging someone's arrival or presence.
- A greeting used when answering the telephone.
- A call for response if it is not clear if anyone is present or listening, or if a telephone conversation may have been disconnected.
- (colloquial) Used sarcastically to imply that the person addressed has done something the speaker considers to be foolish, or missed something that should have been obvious.
- (chiefly UK) An expression of puzzlement or discovery.

Tags

- greetings

Actions

EditMoveDownloadDelete

2. Locate the "Download" link under the "Actions" toolbar.

Hello

Hello is a common greeting.

- A greeting (salutation) said when meeting someone or acknowledging someone's arrival or presence.
- A greeting used when answering the telephone.
- A call for response if it is not clear if anyone is present or listening, or if a telephone conversation may have been disconnected.
- (colloquial) Used sarcastically to imply that the person addressed has done something the speaker considers to be foolish, or missed something that should have been obvious.
- (chiefly UK) An expression of puzzlement or discovery.

Tags

- greetings

Actions

EditMoveDownloadDelete

3. On the download page, you will see a button for each file type, with the corresponding file size.

Download page: Hello

Download as text file

Filesize: 0.56 KB

Download as md file

Filesize: 0.57 KB

Download as pdf file

Filesize: 1.82 KB

4. Select the button for the file type you want to download. The page will be downloaded as that file type.

